The Superintendent of the Preventive Service is empowered to permit the shipment of free goods when urgently required after office hours or at the last moment to complete a vessel's cargo without the usual formalities provided that the following precautions are observed:—

(1) With vessels for foreign ports loading in the stream.—The Mate's receipt for the goods must be handed to the Preventive Officer on board, by whom it will be forwarded to the Superintendent's office for despatch to the Export Department. Here it will be retained until the shipping bills and any documents required are produced.

(2) With vessels loading at the Kidderpore Docks.—

(a) When the goods are shipped by the Port Commissioners.—As the Mate's receipt is required by the Port Commissioners in these cases, it cannot be forwarded by the Preventive Officer. In lieu of it he will send a list of the goods urgently shipped for the information of the Export Department on the following morning.

(b) When the goods are put on board by the shippers without the Port Commissioners' intervention.—The Mate's receipt will be retained as in the case of vessels loading in the stream.
